"THE STRONGEST STATEMENTS COULD NOT TELL HALF IT HAS DONE FOR ME."

Hereditary Liver Trouble,

ENLARGEMENT OF THE LIVER,

Diagnosed by the best Physicians, CURED.

GENTS.--My father died of Consumption of the Liver, many in my family have died with the same disease, and a large part of the time for the past two years I have been very sick, no appetite, bowels alternating between Constipation and Diarrhoea. Pains all over my body, and severe pains all through my Liver. So nervous I could not sleep nights, and in fact was much emaciated and run down.

BETTER THAN

My Physician said I had Enlargement of the Liver.

The day before I commenced the use of SKODA'S REMEDIES, I had two different Physicians call upon me. People thought I must die. I had doctored so much and taken so many different kinds of patent medicines, without any benefit, that when SKODA'S DISCOVERY was brought to me, I threw away doctor's medicines, and began its use.

Soon I commenced to gain; my appetite increased; from being weak and feeble I began to grow stronger; bowels assumed a natural condition; sweet and refreshing sleep came to me nights, I began to increase rapidly in flesh.

I have now taken less than a full course (six bottles) of SKODA'S DISCOVERY, with SKODA'S LITTLE TABLETS, and to-day I am strong, am able to do my own work, in fact, am well and happy. The strongest statement I could make would not tell half your wonderful Remedies have done for me.

Respectfully yours,

Citizens Closely Guarding Emmet Dalton.

He Confesses to Numerous Robberies Made by the Gang.

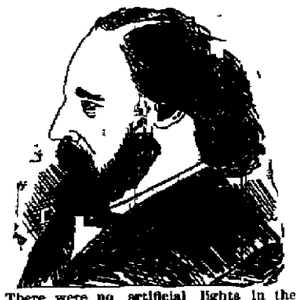
COFFEYVILLE, Oct. 6. Emmet Dalton is being closely guarded by a company of citizens. Only newspaper correspondents are admitted to him. An Associated Press representative saw him at midnight last night and procured from him a statement. He confessed the gang was responsible for the Red Rock, Wharton and other train robberies in the territory which had been credited to them. The story of hidden treasure, he said, was nonsense. If there had been a hidden treasure, he said, we would all have been alive to-day. It was because we were all broke that we planned the Coffeyville raid. We were being hard pressed by officers in the territory and Bob decided that we would have to get out of the country. The bandit is suffering terribly from the wound in his side. The physician attending him says he cannot possibly survive.

THE POET LAUREATE.

Alfred, Lord Tennyson, Passes Away.

His Death Gloriously Peaceful.

LONDON, Oct 6. Lord Tennyson died at 1.35 this morning. His passing away was calm and peaceful. Sir Andrew Clarke, who attended the poet in his last hours, said to a reporter, after leaving the death chamber, "In all my experiences I never witnessed anything more glorious



There were no artificial lights in the chamber, all was darkness except for the silver light of the full moon, which fell on the bed and played across the features of the dying poet, like that of one of Rembrandt's pictures."

Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, said "The end was beautiful, calm and painless. He passed away as if in sleep The watchers could hardly distinguish the final moment."

Twice during the night the dying man smiled upon those around his bedside, indicating that he was conscious and recognized them, but, he was too feeble to speak. Lady Tennyson is nearly prostrated by grief and fatigue. Soon after the poet's death, the sky, which had been clear, became clouded, and the light of the moon was obscured. Shortly afterward rain fell heavily and the scene contrasted strongly with that which had illumined the parting hours of the poet."

THE MAGAZINES.

The Features of the October Numbers.

New England Magazine.

The paper to which most readers will turn first upon opening the pages of the New England Magazine is Miss Lucy Larcom's In the Ossipee Glens. This beautiful resort was for many years the favorite haunt of the poet Whittier, and Miss Larcom, who was an intimate friend of Whittier, describes his books and their associations with his poetry with a truly poetic touch, and a reverent insight into nature. Arthur Wentworth Eaton, who is well known for his lyrics and as an authority upon Nova Scotian history and affairs, describes the Acadian-Province-by-the-Sea, and its legends and traditions, with a great deal of charm and freshness The article is finely illustrated with pencil and pen sketches by Louis A Holman Columbus and His Friends is the subject of a valuable historical essay by Isaac Bassett Choate. Everett S. Hubbard's poem, The Three Ships, which holds the place of honor in the number, is an entertaining supplement to Mr Choate's paper Walter Blackburn Harte contributes the first paper of a series on The Philosophical Basis of Fiction. His theories and deductions will interest both the professors and students of creative literature Richard Marsh has the opening installment of an amusing story, A Prophet. It is altogether a varied and interesting number

Review of Reviews

To the Review of Reviews for October Mr. Stead, the English editor, contributes one of his raciest character sketches, this time dealing with Mr. Gladstone's new Cabinet in a bunch, so to speak, rather than with some single personage The article throws many a bright side-light on contemporary English politics, and hits off in Mr. Stead's fearless and always felicitous manner the twenty or more men who now lead the Liberal English hosts Mr. Shaw, the American editor, writes of two great Americans, Whittier and George William Curtis, the article containing not only recent portraits of these two eminent men, but also very interesting pictures of them as they appeared forty years ago The early portrait of Curtis is from a painting by Lawrence, and the frontispiece represents Mr Curtis in the Easy Chair his contributions from which have delighted American readers for several decades

The St Nicholas.

The October St Nicholas has a full explanation and discussion of the causes and operation of Volcanoes and Earthquakes Three papers are devoted to the subject the last dealing with experiences during the Charleston earthquake Other articles are How Columbus Reckoned, by Royall Bastow Smithey, a discussion of the state on geographical knowledge of his time, The Stone Autograph Album, a description by Charles F Dummis of the great cliff whereon the Spanish explorers inscribed (or, rather, carved) their names Learning to be Weather Prophets, an account of the service, and of study of weather maps in the Boston public schools, and Tapir-hunting in Brazil, by Herbert Smith. In fiction there are the conclusions of the serials, A Land and Water Tussle, a bear-and-boy story, by Clarence Pullen; The Dodish Moral Sense, by Service, a clever child's funny notion and a story for the very little folk The magazine finishes its nineteenth volume with this number.

The Ladies' Home Journal

With a page of Pretty Luncheons and Dainty Teas, a special paper on Changes in Fashionable Stationery, by Ada Chester Bond, and an article by Mrs A G Lewis, on Children's Parties, Fetes and Frolics, the October number of the Ladies' Home Journal opens well Marguerite Merington gives a sketch, with portrait, of Margaret Deland, the author of John Ward, Preacher, and Mrs Mallon writes entertainingly of the personality and home life of The Duchess, the author of Phyllis and Molly Bawn In the series of Clever Daughters of Clever Men, Aimee Raymond, the talented daughter of the late Henry S Raymond, the well-known editor, is pictured and pleasantly written of, as is the wife of Oscar Wilde, in the series of Unknown Wives of Well-known Men

The New Peterson

In the October number of Peterson's Magazine appears the following notice to its subscribers "This magazine is about to pass into the control of stockholders who propose to convert it into a periodical devoted solely to literature and art. Peterson's long-continued success, its general merit, and the great improvement in its literary department during the past few years have decided the future publishers to call their periodical The New Peterson, confident that the name will raise up for it in advance a wide host of friends and supporters. The new magazine will commence with the January number, although the December number will be issued in the new form. A full announcement of its design and description of its leading features will be given in November issue."

We wish The New Peterson every possible success, and are certain that it will speedily become one of the most popular literary periodicals of the day

Fruit of Protection.

The news editor of the Boston Herald scored one on the free trade editorial writer of the same paper in his headlines over the dedication of a new cotton mill in Adams, Wednesday. It was a significant event and the news editor recognized it as such in the following big display type. "An object lesson—Tariff glorified in an Adams mill—Republican argument and fact side by side."

Herein lies the difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties. The Republicans have taken an unequivocal stand in favor of protection and sustain their position by just such object lessons as that at Adams. In other words, Republican arguments and Republican facts (for the general prosperity of the country is a Republican fact), run side by side. The Democrats, who are on the wrong side of this question, just as they are on the wrong side of all questions affecting the welfare of the country, rely upon deception and even absolute falsehood to bolster up their miserable cause.

The incident at Adams was indeed an object lesson. The new mill is the second erected by the company within three years. When it is in operation there will be eighteen hundred hands employed by this concern. The Republican candidate for Governor is a member of the company. While Gov Russell is running over the State making speeches denouncing the tariff and detracting from the industrial importance of the Commonwealth, his Republican competitor is giving employment to hundreds of workmen in an enterprise stimulated by the McKinley tariff.

Another pleasing as well as encouraging fact in connection with this mill is that the machinery is nearly all of American make. When the first mill was built the machinery was imported from England. The McKinley bill increased the duty on the finer grades of cotton enabling our manufacturers to compete with our foreign rivals, the result being a demand for finer machines and the American builders immediately supplied the want.

England Wants Cleveland.

As a matter of political expediency Cleveland and his supporters in this country are anxious to repudiate for the time being the party's unqualified demand for free trade. His English friends, however, are not so cautious as will be seen from the following extract from the Liverpool Echo of September 16:

The outlook for British trade is decidedly not encouraging just at present. The effect of the "tariff wall" of tariff which our competitors in the United States—"a little more than kin and less than kind"—have erected around their territory avowedly to keep out British manufactures is every day BECOMING MORE DISASTROUSLY APPARENT IN THIS COUNTRY.

A ready sale, that once proud model of an English industrial community, is as good as gone. THE WELSH TIN-PLATE INDUSTRY IS RUINED, and the plush trade of Huddersfield is about to be transferred bodily across the Atlantic to a point within the tariff wall. The cotton trade of Lancashire is so depressed that no one knows what may come next, and consequently all brisk enterprise is straggled and a general feeling of apprehension prevails as regards what the morrow may bring forth. The latest evidence of the injury done to British trade by the McKinley tariff—which, while not enriching the United States' population, but only the interested manufacturers, makes us this on side poor indeed—is afforded by the balance-sheet of the Steel Company of Scotland, which shows a balance on the wrong side of no less than £13,000.

Two questions which will soon force themselves upon the minds of the working people, to whom the continued maintenance and prosperity of our industries is the very bread of life, are: How long is this to last, and how may it be remedied? It is extremely doubtful if the people of the United States will have either the courage or the courage to abrogate within an unreasonable period a law which they are told by many of their most trusted leaders is the necessary basis of their eventual industrial supremacy; and further, for some reason which on this side the Atlantic it is difficult to comprehend, the operation of "twisting the British lion's tail" appears to be attended with supreme delight to the thoroughbred Yankee, and hardly less so to the hybrid aggiomaration of races which forms so large a portion of the population of the Republic.

UNDOUBTEDLY, FAILING THE SUCCESS AT THE PRESIDENTIAL POLLING OF MR. CLEVELAND, WHO HAS PLEDGED HIS PARTY TO A REVENUE TARIFF, THE FUTURE OF BRITISH MANUFACTURES AND OF ALL THE SUBSIDIARY INDUSTRIES DEPENDING UPON THEM IS DARK INDEED. No doubt the old country will pull through somehow, as she has done before, but it is to be feared that if the McKinley tariff is to be indefinitely maintained it will be at a cost in suffering and poverty which is at present impossible to estimate, and it may further involve a permanent lowering of the greatly improved standard of comfort which has been attained by the working classes of this country during the present century.

Every American workingman should preserve this extract and when he goes to the polls in November vote for his own interests by casting a ballot for the party of American protection, rather than for the party of English free trade.

Found His Level

The New York Sun had an interview with Gen. Sickles, Tuesday morning, in which the old veteran said:

"For the first time in my life I find myself a sort of Mugwump. I look down with serene indifference upon political parties and partisan contention. It is a peculiar experience for me. NO, I shall not go on the stump for either candidate. I did so with Governor Hill for Mr. Cleveland in 1888, and our reward was to be accused of knifing the ticket. I am afraid that Senator Hill will be similarly rewarded for his magnanimous action in again going on the platform for Mr. Cleveland. I went out through the State with Governor Hill in 1888 at his request. He had found some trouble to handle the old soldiers, and he thought I could assist in keeping them in line. I found them all glad enough to see me wherever we went, but they could not be shaken from their determination to vote for Harrison. They said: "We are glad to see you, General, but you mustn't ask us to vote for Cleveland." Reasoning with them as Democrats would not change them. They argued that a comrade like General Harrison, who was in sympathy with them, would do what he could to give them their pensions, while President Cleveland, they said, had a record of vetoing more pensions than all his predecessors combined. They expected nothing from him.

"The Democratic old soldiers could not be budged, and I told Governor Hill that I was of no use in the canvass and might as well come home. He urged me to remain with him, and I did, but I confined myself to talk on the general issues. There was nothing in the soldier record of Mr. Cleveland which I could advance, and I let my presence as an old soldier with more or less of a decent record on a public platform supporting Mr. Cleveland's re-election stand as the only argument to Democratic veterans to remain true to the ticket. It was my experience in that campaign which led me to endorse Bourke Cockran's statement at Chicago that there are 25,000 Democratic soldiers in New York, who will not support Mr. Cleveland."

General Sickels went on to say that there was also a strong opposition to Mr. Cleveland in 1888 among the old time Democrats because of his Mugwump alliances. They wanted a straight party man.

"This year," said he, "there are three elements of opposition—the old soldiers who were against him in 1888, the old time Democrats who were also against him in the same year, and Governor Hill's friends, for no matter if Governor Hill has magnanimously come to the support of Mr. Cleveland, there are some of his friends who will and do say: 'Let Governor Hill do what he pleases. We cannot forgive.'"

The general again described himself as a Mugwump bird who will simply gaze on the present contest.

It will be seen that Gen Sickles not only declares anew that the old soldiers will not vote for Cleveland, but that Senator Hill's appearance in the canvass will not influence the action of his friends.

THE MAD MAGICIAN.

AN EXCITING STORY ABOUT THE PLANET MARS AND ITS INHABITANTS.

"The Mad Magician," the new and thrilling story now being distributed broadcast by the agents of the Hidden Medicine Company, claims that the aurora borealis, or "northern light," instead of being reflected from "frozen mountains of ice in the polar regions," is in reality a gigantic system of flash signals designed by the inhabitants of Mars to attract the attention of and to establish communication with the people of earth. It then goes on to tell how the "Mad Magician" made this startling scientific discovery, and the means he adopted to get into communication with the inhabitants of the mysterious and much discussed planet. "The Mad Magician" will not only cause a wave of speculation about Mars, but, when it is equally near and near to the hearts of the entertaining publishers, it will make big profits for them. "Hood's Sarsaparilla Compound," and what other aid, is the object sought in the announcement.

THE DELAMATER CASE.

The Ex-Senator the Only One Found Guilty.

BRADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 6. The jury in the embezzlement cases against the Delamaters, returned a verdict this morning of guilty as to Hon. George Wallace Delamater, and not guilty as to the other defendants. The defendant was State Senator for many years and the Republican candidate for Governor in 1890. The embezzlement charges were the outgrowth of the failure of the Delamater Banking Company, in December, 1891.

The charge upon which ex-Senator Delamater was convicted, was statutory embezzlement, that is, the firm received deposits knowing themselves to be insolvent. Since the election of Governor Pattison, and the Meadeville bank failure, ex-Senator Delamater has been practicing lawyer Seattle, Washington.

The penalty is a fine of not less than the sum embezzled and imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one year, nor more than six years in solitary confinement, at hard labor.

LACKED MORAL COURAGE.

Suicide of a Wealthy Philadelphia Business Man.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6. William M. Runk, of the extensive dry goods firm of Darlington, Runk & Co., committed suicide by shooting himself this morning at his country home at St. Davids, near this city.

For some time Mr. Runk has shown mental depression. Mr. Darlington has been in Europe and during his absence Mr. Runk had been dealing in stocks. Mr. Runk's personal estate was represented to be a very handsome one but he made ventures with the money of the firm of Darlington & Runk to the aggregate of about $80,000.

Upon Mr. Darlington's return he was informed by Mr. Runk that certain bills which had accumulated in the interval, aggregating the total stated above had been paid. When the discovery was made yesterday afternoon that such was not the case Mr. Runk went direct to his home at St. Davids. His wife was over his condition, which was one of great depression, and tried to cheer him up. Later in the evening he wrote two letters and left them upon the library table addressed respectively to Mrs. Runk and Mr. Darlington, and acquainted them with the cause for the act.

The evident reason for the deed was found in his remorse that he had deceived his partner and lacked the courage to make a clean breast of the transactions. They had been associated 14 years and therefore their relations were marked by the utmost frankness. One word of admission would have brought him to his aid, but he was not strong enough for that word. Mr. Runk carried an insurance upon his life of $425,000.

Later—Darlington denies the statement that Mr. Runk used $80,000 of the firm's money in speculations.

Collision at Kingman.

About 10 o'clock yesterday morning a Canadian Pacific railway special freight train ran into the rear of Maine Central special freight train No. 26, which was standing at the station of Kingman, and which reaches Bangor at 5 P. M. The Canadian Pacific locomotive was considerably damaged and the saloon car and five box cars, containing potatoes, of the Maine Central train were wrecked. The accident occurred on the main line, which was blocked, but fortunately the sidings enabled trains to go around so that there was no delay. Nobody was injured. It is reported that the engineer and fireman of the Canadian Pacific locomotive jumped when they saw a collision was inevitable, and were not injured. It has not been determined yesterday upon whom the blame rested. The station is in sight as the cars come round the curve, but the cars themselves were evidently not seen by the engineer.

Several of the delegates from the Bangor Young Men's Christian Association left yesterday on the morning train for Augusta to attend the State convention. President J. G. Blake went on the afternoon train and Physical Director Meylan goes this morning.

Street Commissioner Woodbury is doing a good job in gravelling Broadway between North and South Park streets. The report that he is to transfer similar operations to Center street is received with much satisfaction by the residents on that much travelled thoroughfare.

The ladies of the class of '96, Colby University, have chosen the following officers: President, Miss Bessie Pepper; vice president, Miss Ethel Farr; secretary, Mrs. Christine Tooker; treasurer, Miss Sara B. Matthews; executive committee, Miss Ethel Pratt, Miss Nina G. Vose, Miss Mary Croswell.

Next Sunday afternoon the adjourned meeting of the railroad men will take place at Columbia Hall in Portland and a number from Bangor and vicinity will attend. The movement for the State Relief is progressing well and it is now considered that steps will be taken to form the desired organization.

The High School foot ball eleven is taking daily practices on the Common and is playing a snappy game which promises well for the future games with teams from other places. If the work is kept up the team will get a good knowledge of the principles and practice of a game whose requirements for the best results are many and exacting.

An excursion of 140 from Waterville visited Good Will Farm yesterday, remaining there four hours. They were met on the arrival of the train with the Good Will yell of the 37 boys. A bountiful lunch was provided. While the visitors inspected all of the cottages, the ladies visited many of the boys, and all declared it was a royal good time. The boys saluted as the company departed.

A. W. Pitman has been remodelling and enlarging his barber shop on Hammond street. He has removed the partition, enlarging the main room, and leaving two smaller rooms in the rear, one of which will be used as a ladies' and children's hair dressing room. Other changes have been made and the room made better in every way. Assisted by Mr. Taylor Mr. Pitman is doing an excellent business and giving good satisfaction to his customers.

Last summer Patrolman Hanson, of Portland, formerly of this city, escorted a lady, two children and a nurse to a Westbrook street car. Last week a letter from Florida addressed to the city marshal was received inquiring the name of the officer on the Congress street beat. Word was sent back that Officer Hanson was the man, and Tuesday he received a letter from Mr. George H. Ruge, of Apalachicola, husband of the lady, containing a check for $250.

DEATH FROM INJURIES

Received at the Hand of a Would-Be Robber

Mr. Humphrey Nichols, of South Corinth, who was severely injured a short time ago by an encounter with a would-be robber who entered his room and assaulted him with a club, died Wednesday night. Since the encounter he had been in a precarious state and finally erysipelas set in in the head, it being the immediate cause of his death.

Mr. Nichols, who was nearly 86 years of age, was born in Bangor, and went to Corinth when a young man. He cleared a farm and had since been engaged in farming, lumbering and manufacturing and had come to be comfortably well off. He held several town offices of trust and was postmaster for many years.

He was a much respected citizen of South Corinth and his death is a matter of deep regret to a very large number. Mr. Nichols had ten children by his first wife, and seven survive. They are E. C. and W. E., of Bangor; E. T. and Lamartine, of Corinth; Walter, of Benedict, Fla.; L. B., of Sanford, Fla., and Mrs. T. A. Parker, of Presque Isle. The funeral services will be held this afternoon at his late residence.

INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE

By Mrs. D. H. Kinney Thursday Afternoon.

The lecture on emergencies and the care of the sick yesterday afternoon by Mrs. D. H. Kinney at the octure room of the Young Men's Christian Association building was largely attended and it was a highly pleased and valuably instructed audience. Mrs. Kinney gave a very able lecture, touching upon many points which all should know and keep in mind as emergencies will arise when they will be needed. Besides giving an instructive lecture Mrs. Kinney is an entertaining talker and presented her ideas and facts in a manner which attracted and held the close attention of her hearers. It was a well appreciated talk on an important subject and the coming lectures at the same place on Monday and Thursday of next week will be looked forward to with interest.

The Sum of $8,600 Agreed Upon Thursday,

For Damages By Fire on the Bangor House.

The case of Bangor Savings Bank vs. Niagara Insurance Company and others, including the New Hampshire, Union, Granite State, Sun, of London, Fire Insurance, of Philadelphia, Liverpool, London & Globe and Commercial Union, for damages by fire to the Bangor House on May 5th, 1889, was assigned for trial next Tuesday at the present term of the Supreme Judicial Court, but will not then or at any other time be heard as a settlement was made yesterday forenoon between the Bangor Savings Bank, Hon F. O. Beal and the representatives of the insurance companies, Mr. H. R. Turner and Mr. E. C. Bush, of Boston, for $8,600, which is regarded as satisfactory to all concerned.

The fire occurred in 1889, as above stated, and the appraisal was $6,950, which Mr. Beal would not accept. The insurance companies insisted that the award was binding, but Mr. Beal contended that the award had not been made in accordance with the written agreement which was to the effect that three appraisers should make their appraisal together. This was not done, however, but by each one separately. The case was brought to trial and a verdict of $8,300 for Mr. Beal was rendered. The insurance companies then appealed and the case has been two years before the law court. During the past summer a new trial was granted on account of technicalities and it would have been before the present term had not the above settlement been made. C. P. Stetson, Esq., was attorney for the Bangor Savings Bank and Mr. Beal, and Baker, Baker & Cornish, of Augusta, for the insurance companies.

GYMNASIUM WORK.

Notes Regarding the Plans for the Coming Winter

The physical work at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this winter is arranged on regular educational principles. It is divided into three grades, the elementary, intermediate and advanced. Each grade is subdivided into four sections, A, B, C, and D. New members are placed in section A, and advanced as fast as they improve. The regular examinations for promotion from one grade to another will be made during the winter, thus giving each member an opportunity to advance according to ability. Certificates will be given to all those who pass a satisfactory examination in each grade.

The ladies' classes have received quite a number of new members, some of whom were advised by some of the most prominent physicians in the city to take a course of well directed exercise at the gymnasium. With the able instruction of Director Meylan they cannot fail to receive a great deal of benefit. The classes promise to be well filled this year. Fencing has been introduced as one of the amusements and exercise.

A bowling tournament will occur next month and the arrangements which are being made for it will make it unusually interesting. It will be for individual playing and the winner will receive a prize well worth competing for. It will be open to all members. Considerable interest is taken in bowling and the games of last winter and spring did much to foster the exercise. The bowling alley is well equipped.

Bowling teams are now being arranged. There will be four, one from the Y. M. C. A. "gym" members, another from the Theological Seminary students, a third from the High School scholars and the fourth from the Business College. A series of games will be arranged between these teams and there will be considerable rivalry as to which will win the championship.

MILITARY RECEPTION

Coburn Cadets Will be Entertained at Hampden To-day.

The Coburn Cadets, of the Maine State College, who have been encamped at the old fort at Castine during the present week, break camp to-day and will arrive this afternoon for Hampden, where they will meet with a cordial reception.

Upon their arrival they will be met by Maj. E. E. Emerson, the Crosby Guards and the Hampden Band and there will then be a parade about the town. In the evening there will be a banquet at Town Hall and possibly a dance afterwards. Col. Victor Brett, field and staff officers of the Second Regiment, have accepted an invitation to attend.

The visit to Hampden will doubtless be a very enjoyable one and the cadets will have occasion to remember it very pleasantly. They will camp at Hampden to-night and to-morrow morning will start on a march from that town to Orono, passing through this city. The cadets have obtained much practical and valuable knowledge of camp life, it being conducted on strict army principles under the direction of Lieut. Hersey, military instructor at the college, and they will return to Orono much benefitted. The weather while in camp has not been very favorable, but the camp drill has been well carried out.

TAXIDERMY SPECIMENS.

The Only Snow Goose Ever Killed in Maine.

The taxidermy establishment of Mr. Sumner L. Crosby on Exchange street is an interesting place to the student of natural history and notwithstanding the fact that the open time on big game has been in force less than a week Mr. Crosby has already received quite a number of heads to be mounted.

The rarest specimen at his rooms is a snow goose which he has just received. It was secured by a friend of Mr. J. A. Perkins, of Lawrence, Mass., who have been hunting in the Nicatous Lake region, and is believed to be the only one ever shot in Maine. It is found in the grain fields in the West, in California and sometimes in Canada, but it is very rare in other sections of the country.

Mr. Crosby is now mounting an enormous moose-head for a man in Manistee, Mich. The moose was shot by Guide David Brown in the Chesuncook Lake re-

Hon. Albert G. Wakefield

The community will be pained to learn of the death of Hon. Albert G. Wakefield, which occurred about 5 P. M. yesterday, a general breaking up of the system being the cause. Mr. Wakefield was one of our most aged, highly esteemed and respected citizens and one who had long held an honored place in this city and State. He was the oldest member of the Penobscot Bar and one of the oldest lawyers in Maine. For several months he had been in an enfeebled condition and during the past two weeks grew worse until he passed away yesterday.

Mr. Wakefield was born on the first day of November, 1804, at Montpelier, Vermont. He was the eldest of a family of four children. The loss of his father when he was eight years of age, threw upon him much manly care, labor and responsibility. A few years later the mother with her four children migrated from Vermont to what is now known as "Parishville," situated east of Potsdam, in northern New York, at that time a comparative wilderness. Here, a half brother, an older son of his mother by a former husband, named "Gilbert," had previously settled and here the family continued to live for some six years. It was a rough, restricted and rigorous life for them. Their mansion was a log house, lighted by paper windows, and warmed only by a fire built on the ground-floor. The chimney was made of wood, which was plastered inside with clay. In 1823 the family abandoned this hard frontier life and moved to Auburn, (then Ward) Mass.

Up to this date Mr. Wakefield had had little schooling, having advanced in arithmetic, perhaps, as far as simple interest, but never having seen a grammar nor a geographic map. They, at first, made their home in Ward with Mr. Joseph Stone, the step-father of Mrs. Wakefield, and during the spring, summer and fall of 1823, the young man was chiefly engaged there in "work on a farm," as had been his employment in the State of New York. His first public schooling at Ward, and most likely the only public schooling he experienced after leaving Montpelier in February, 1817, he received in the winter of 1824. This school was of eight weeks duration, and was kept by Mr. (afterwards Rev.) Artemus Bullard. When the youth proposed to this instructor that he be permitted to enter on the study of grammar, the latter earnestly advised him against so doing, remarking that it would be of "no use" to him, but urgently recommending instead that he apply himself vigorously to the study of the catechism. Having decided the matter for himself, and in accordance with his own promptings, however, the end of the sixth week had placed the young student at the very head of the school in that most important branch of education, English grammar.

During the year 1824 while he was enjoying a vacation from farm work, he pursued, for about six weeks, the studies of geography and arithmetic, under the private tuition of the late Rev. Dr. Enoch Pond, of Bangor, then living at Ward and so deligently did he improve his hours of study that the very next winter (1825) he acceptably and honorably succeeded Mr. Bullard as "master" of that same village school he had first entered as a pupil only a twelve-month before, with such meager preparation, and with so slender promise in the estimation of that teacher. He taught public schools in the same town the two following winters, 1826 and 1827, and after finishing the last one he taught one, of two months term, in the adjoining town of Worcester. Here he was first called on to pass the ordeal of a formal school committee examination. As usual in those days the leading clergymen constituted the committee. The chairman was the Rev. Dr. Bancroft, the eminent father of the more eminent historian. Associated with him were Rev. Mr. Hoadly, the Congregationalist, and Rev. Mr. Gowan, the Baptist minister. This learned body made no question or criticism of his literary or scholastic attainments, the only suggestion to him being a caution given by one of them that he "should be careful not to be too martial in his bearing."

The time occupied by him in his preparation for college, that is, the time he gave to such preparation, after commencing the studies of Latin and Greek, was fourteen months. This was passed under the private instruction of Rev. Dr. Pond. At the end of which time he entered the freshman class of Brown University, at its last (3rd) term, 1827. The institution was at that date under the presidency of Rev. Dr. Francis Wayland, who was then in the zenith of his prime and power. Mr. Wakefield continued at Brown, with the exception of partial absences while engaged in teaching winter schools, till the completion of his college course, graduating with the third rank in his class, in 1830. And among his classmates were Prof. George Ide Chase, LL. D., Rev. Christopher M. Nickels, D. D., and Hon. Benjamin F. Thomas, LL. D., also our former townsman, the late Judge Spencer A. Pratt. After graduation he went, in the fall of 1830, to Bucksport, Maine, where he had charge of a High School for one year, at the end of which time he came to Bangor and entered as a law student with Hon. William Abbott. And here, with occasional absences, has since been his home. In the summer of 1832 he taught the Castine High School. The last year of his legal studies was spent at the Harvard Law School.

Professors Story and Greenleaf were then its most noted instructors and lecturers. And among his classmates there for the year "1834," the catalogue shows the names of George Tickuor Curtis and Charles Sumner, also of Wyman B. S. Moor (at one time a resident of Bangor and Attorney General of Maine, 1844 to 1848), and of Albert Pillsbury, Democratic candidate for Governor of Maine in 1863. Out of that class of forty not more than seven or eight now survive.

He was admitted to the Penobscot bar, in the Court of Common Pleas, Ch. J. Whitman, presiding, on the eighteenth day of October, 1834, and at once became the law partner of his friend and legal instructor, Mr. Abbott. This business association continued until Mr. W. was compelled by ill health to relinquish for a time the practice of his profession. He resumed it, however, a few years later, and continued its duties, almost unintermost faithful, conscientious, liberal and intelligent service. As a citizen he was ever earnest, watchful and devoted in the support of all such movements, policies and institutions as had for their object the enlargement, advancement and elevation of his fellow men. As a lawyer he was accurate, thorough and reliable. As a friend he was sincere, generous and confiding, and as a man he was without fear and without reproach.

He was married in May, 1845, to Miss Lucy G. Forbes, of Bangor.

She was a most amiable lady and possessed more than ordinary literary tastes and attainments. She made for him a quiet, refined and cultivated home. Her death occurred after a long and distressing sickness, on the 21st day of October, 1883. His devotion to her was tender, constant and sincere. His household affairs have since been most happily and faithfully administered by Miss Sarah T. Kent, who was a kind and devoted attendant on Mrs. Wakefield in her last illness. His nearest living relatives are one niece, Mrs. C. C. Cook, of West Newton, Mass., and two nephews, Mr. Samuel G. Curtis, of Worcester, and Albert W. Curtis, Esq., of Spencer, Mass. But although he had no children by the ties of blood, the noble charity of $10,000, which he founded in 1877 for indigent women of Bangor, and which is carefully dispensed under the discreet administration of the Home for Aged Women, has already made him in the past as it is destined to make him in the long future, the kind and loving father of many young and fatherless children because of the wise and generous provision he thereby made for the relief and encouragement of their poor and struggling widowed mothers.

"Green be his memory through the lapse of years."

The funeral will occur to-morrow at 2.30 P. M., at his late residence on Essex street.

Ladies Arion Quartette

A very pleasing concert event this evening will be the appearance of the Ladies Arion Quartette, of New York, at the Universalist church and there will without doubt be a large attendance. The quartette is composed of Miss Belle Mullens, first soprano and soloist; Miss Estelle Berry, second soprano and reader; Mrs. C. May French, first alto and impersonator; Miss Hattie Randolph, second alto and accompanist. The following are press notices:

The Ladies Arion Quartette is without doubt one of the most organizations of its kind in the country. Its entertainments are full of good things and enough mirth to make you feel glad you did not stay away.—Chicago Music Company.

Miss Belle Mullins scored a grand success in Eckert's "Swiss Echo Song," and again brought her to the front as one of New York's finest concert singers. Miss Mullins has a pure soprano voice and takes the high F in alt with such ease it is a delightful pleasure to hear her sing.—Boston Herald.

Miss Estelle Berry is one of the few readers who do not try you with long drawn out selections, but takes more to the humorous. She completely captivated her audience with her graceful manners and sweet voice and all her selections were heartily encored.—Buffalo Daily Press.

There's a wide difference between the help that's talked of and the help that's guaranteed.

Which do you want, when you're buying medicine?

If you're satisfied with words, you get them with every blood purifier but one. That one is Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery With that, you get a guarantee. If it doesn't help you, you have your money back. On this plan, a medicine that promises help is pretty sure to give it

But it's because the medicine is different, that it's sold differently. It's not like the sarsaparillas, which are said to be good for the blood in March, April, and May. At all seasons and in all cases, it cures permanently, as nothing else can, all the diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood.

It's the best blood purifier, and it's the cheapest, no matter how many doses are offered for a dollar

With this, you pay only for the good you get.

Yesterday a large number of Brewer people went to the fairs at Orrington and Eddington. At Orrington it was the closing day. The various premiums were given to their winners. The day was favorable for the races and they passed off smoothly The second and closing day of the Eddington Fair was a success. It was marked by the first appearance of the new band, which did very well considering their short practice. In the evening there was a dance in the hall and a large number went from this city All report a nice time.

Mr. C E. Lunt, the collector at the toll bridge, is one of Brewer's most expert amateur photographers, and has many fine views of various places and objects about the city, in its vicinity and along the river. A reporter saw recently a photograph of the steamer Sedgwick as she appeared on the stocks a few days before launched, which Mr Lunt secured, and it was as fine a representation of the fine boat as could be desired and excellently finished Mr. Lunt has considerable talent in this line and like other amateurs derives much pleasure from the work and takes pride in the quality of his views.

Most people, when they read in the newspapers of the immense quantity of mail matter which goes to the dead letter office in Washington, are astonished and wonder where it all comes from. In fact the amount that goes from one office is surprising. From the post-office in this city about five letter parcels are sent every week to the dead letter department, about 260 that go every year, and when one compares the size of Brewer's entire mail with that which all places in the country have, supposing it is in the same proport on as the number of our people is to the population in the United States, taen the figures in regard to dead letter matter co not seem so astounding.

FASHIONS IN CHILDREN'S CLOTHES.

Mothers everywhere have solved the problem of how to keep their children well and fashionably dressed at small expense. It is through Diamond Dyes that so many children have clothes of fashionable brown, crardinal, or myrtle green. Little suits, cloaks, etc., are easily made from faded clothes, and when dyed so one can tell that they were not new.

Last Thursday, A. Light, Jr., owned by J. M. Kitchen, of Houlton, was driven an exhibition mile, without a break, in 2.38½, on Maple Grove Park, by Geo. McNally, driver of Fearless.

Mr. R. T. Peabody, last week, hauled the largest load of potatoes to Mansur's starch factory, with one span of horses, that has ever been received. There were one hundred and eleven bushels in the load, says the Houlton Pioneer.

There are about twenty-four inmates in Houlton jail.

This village is lighted by seventy incandescent and three arc lights, at a cost of $1.70 per night, and it may be some satisfaction to the tax-payer to know what proportion of the expense is borne by him, says the Pioneer. If one's cash tax is fifty dollars he pays about two dollars a year as his proportion, or a sum sufficient to keep the lights running a little over six hours—not a very heavy individual expense. Five hundred or more tax-payers pay less than one dol ar a year towards the lights.

Another trotting event has been arranged to take place at Maple Grove Park a week from Saturday. Besides a matched race for $200 between Egan Harrigans, br. m. Maud Harris and W. J. Gibadore's b. g. Charles B, there will be a three minute class-purse $50, and a free-for-all-purse $60. One of the fastest stallions in the county will also be driven an exhibition mile. This trotting event is already the talk of the town and will draw a big crowd.

Tuesday afternoon, at the Falmouth Hotel, in Portland, there was a meeting of the Commercial Travellers' committee, who have charge of the erection of a new building for the Good Will Home for boys at Fairfield The architect, Mr Lewis, of Gardiner, presented the plans of the building for approval. The committee then considered ways and means necessary to complete the fund of $10 000 which the Commercial Travellers propose to raise. The building itself will cost about $8,000 and it is desired to have a little surplus towards furnishing and getting the new department under way. The building is to be used for industrial purposes

The two large houses, Nos 300 and 308 Danforth street, in Portland, owned and occupied, the former by Mrs. S. E Spring, and the latter by Mrs Andrew Spring, were broken into by burglars Monday night. The thieves were apparently amateurs, as they created much disturbance and got very little plunder, if any. The ladies were living in the houses, but knew nothing about the visit of the burglars until the servants made discoveries in the morning. The houses have large yards, and stand apart so that the burglars had free access They tried to enter Mr. S. E Spring's house by way of the basement vestibule. The outside door they opened by means of a key and tried the inner door in the same way. But this door happened to be bolted, so that the burglars only succeeded in turning the bolt of a lock that had not been locked. Foiled in this, the burglars next tried the pantry, and succeeded in entering it, but again they were prevented by bolts from entering the rest of the house. In the house of Mrs. Andrew Spring they succeeded better, effecting an entrance by cutting through a window in the rear basement. They ransacked the lower part of the house pretty thoroughly, evidently looking for money. Thus they broke into a desk, scattering the contents over the floor. They found a pocket book, but no money. Neither did they disturb the furniture or find any of the silverware The methods of the burglars were peculiar. They took the umbrellas in the house and used them to prop open the doors, so that their escape might be unimpeded in case of pursuit. They left a large number of burnt matches on the floors. The family were not awakened and knew nothing of the visitation until morning The case was reported to the police, but there seems to be no clue.

In a building on Commercial street, Portland, where evidently some of the tenants are negligent about sweeping the stairs, may be seen in the upper corridor a box, of contribution box over which is this sign: "When each kind hearted person passes this way, and has a spare penny with him, please help us along to establish a fund to keep these confounded stairs clean, and oblige,

Much interest is manifested at the government works at Green Lake as to whether the salmon tagged two years ago will appear on the spawning beds this season. Although several of the tagged fish have been caught in the lake since they were put in, none of them came up the brook to spawn last year or so far this year. Some three years ago the U. S. fish commission planted about fifteen thousand yearling land-locked salmon, taken from the Grand Lake Stream chain of lakes, in Green Lake. It was expected that the present season these fish would commence spawning and as the fish from which these salmon were taken run down stream to spawn, instead of up as the old stock in the lake do, it has been interesting to note whether the new salmon would develop the same tendency or not. As reporter last week, eleven fine salmon were taken in the stream below the dam after the gates had been open a few days. The United States fish commission will at once construct a trap to take all the fish that pass out of the lake.

The Grand Central hotel at Bar Harbor, has been purchased and will be made into a first-class hotel by Mr. Johnston Livingston, of New York, who has purchased it for himself and not for a syndicate The hotel will be completely remodelled The present frame will be used and that is about all of the present structure. The front of the house will be entirely changed and will be made of stucco with perhaps a brick front to the first story. There will be a row of stores on the ground floor. The house will remain in the same position and will not be moved any further front. The interior will be made into suites of rooms with parlors, bedrooms and bath and all modern improvements. All the rooms and apartments will be elegantly furnished and in short it will be made a model hotel. It will be run on the European plan and there will be an elegant restaurant on the first floor. Work has already been commenced and the old part of the house in the rear is nearly demolished. It is understood that the restaurant will occupy that site. Mr DeGrasse Fox is acting for Mr. Livingston and will undoubtedly have a hand in the management of the house.

The stockholders of the Maine Manufacturing Company held their first annual meeting in Rockland, electing the following new board of directors: John Scott Browning, William H. Browning, and James McGeehan, of New York; Arthur S. Littlefield and Henry S. Stem, of Rockland. At a subsequent meeting of the directors these officers were chosen: President, John Scott Browning; Vice President, Arthur C. Littlefield; Secretary and Manager, Henry C. Stein; Treasurer The beginning of the second year will witness a radical change in the management of the company's large factory on Park street. From this out it will be run to its fullest capacity, furnishing employment two five hundred people if they can be secured.

A committee from both branches of the Rockland city government, appointed for the purpose, have reported, recommending the abolition of the common council, as extra aldermen from each ward being chosen in the future, the matter to be voted upon in the November elections.

CONGRATULATE LIEUT. PEARY

Letter from Bowdoin College Faculty to the Arctic Explorer

Bowdoin College seems to breed explorations. Last year Prof Lee conducted a very successful expedition, and now the great Arctic expedition of Lieut Robert E Peary, a Bowdoin man, has come to a most successful termination

Lieut. Peary, who graduated in 1887, was in the mechanical department when in college, which then gave one of the best courses in the institution. He had a strong passion for natural history and was a taxidermist quite noted in this vicinity, doing a great deal of this work while in college. He was given to taking long walks by himself. He was a brilliant scholar but was never looked upon as a future Arctic explorer!

When he was making his preparations for his voyage he called upon the Bowdoin faculty to assist him in procuring his leave of absence, and they did considerable work in his behalf.

The faculty have just sent to Lieut Peary a letter of congratulation upon his successful expedition It is as follows

BOWDOIN COLLEGE,
BRUNSWICK, Me.,
Oct. 3, 1892.

To Lieutenant Robert E, Peary, U, S N

Dear Sir—The Academical Faculty of Bowdoin College desire to extend to you their cordial congratulations upon your safe return from the hardships and perils of your expedition to Greenland, and upon the gratifying vindication of the theory on which it was projected and carried forward. In seconding your request to the Naval Department for a leave of absence in order to undertake this expedition in the interests of science and geographical discovery, the Faculty did not hesitate to express their confidence in your ability to conduct the expedition to successful termination. If you had not been exiled beyond the reach of communication it would have given them pleasure to renew to yourself that assurance of confidence, when, for some reason, the public exhibited a tendency to distrust the wisdom of your plans, and your power to carry them out.

It affords them great pleasure therefore, to join in the general congratulations that welcome you back from so brilliant achievement.

It is, it may be added, a source of genuine and legitimate pride to the Faculty, as it must be to all friends of Bowdoin, that this latest, and, in some respects, most interesting of Arctic explorations, has been accomplished by an honored alumnus of the college, who has thus been permitted to add a new mark of distinction to his Alma Mater in the closing years of the first century of her existence.

By vote of the faculty and in their behalf. G. T. LITTLE, Secretary.
